

Help us tell the stories of the veterans in our community

Our Mob has proudly served in almost every conflict and peace operation in which Australia has been involved since the Boer War.

At the Department of Veterans' Affairs (DVA), we proudly support these veterans, and aim to keep their stories alive to tell future generations.

If you want to do more to support those who are currently serving or have served and their families, DVA's full suite of government services gives you a broad and impactful opportunity to make a difference.

Help us tell their story

Help us give voice to the thousands of Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander veterans. By keeping their stories of service alive, we can ensure they and their families have all the support they need through a suite of government services.

Dedication to our Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander employees

We are dedicated and committed to attract, recruit, retain and develop our Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employees. It is a journey, and although we're not there yet, we need your energy, support, ambition and commitment to make it happen. Join us and help us be relevant to and valued by the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander veterans who served our country.

Small focus, big impact

Our veterans have risked their lives and faced extraordinary circumstances to ensure we can live in the country we do today. We focus on the holistic wellbeing of our veterans and their families, by offering quality of life through healthcare, income support, compensation and mental health support amongst other services.

Ours is a broad offering, with specific focus.

Join us and take the opportunity to provide the full breadth of government services to our veteran community in an agency with a small remit but big impact.

A varied, broad and rewarding career

Take on a rewarding, varied, and broad career with an Australian Public Service Department that can bring balance and flexibility to your working life, while supporting you to stay connected to your community.
